

18 Woodville Rd,
London,
W5 2SF

9th November 2009

To whom it may concern,

We appointed Good London Builders as our project management team having been recommended to use them. We met with Rory Gordon at the beginning of the process and talked through all that we wanted to achieve.

Rory brought in one of his teams of builders, a company called Protia Construction, and together they prepared a thorough assessment of the requirements and a detailed quote, which we were very happy with.

It was necessary for us to move out of the house for a period of time and it was invaluable having Rory's daily updates on progress including detailed digital photography of the developments. The project management was exceptionally useful as we really didn't have to get too involved in the process and Rory simply called on us when we needed to make a decision.

The work that was delivered was excellent, the house has been transformed into what we had imagined and the bathrooms in particular are outstanding. The work done by Protia was excellent and the attention to detail that came with Good London Builder's management of the job has just meant that there have been no issues to resolve and no difficult conversations to be had.

We would thoroughly recommend using Good London Builders and Protia Construction for any work you might consider doing.

Kind regards,

Christine and Steve Macallister